University of Adelaide Business School Team attends International Case Competition in Montreal

From 25 to 29 March 2008, four representatives of the University of Adelaide Business School will compete in the McGill Management International Case Competition ('MMICC') in Montreal, Canada. They comprise the Macquarie Capital team.

The MMICC is a business case competition hosted by the Desautels Faculty of Management of McGill University and held annually in Montreal. The first MMICC was held in March 2001. Since then, the case competition has quickly grown to become one of the very best and prestigious of its kind worldwide. Today, the MMICC is a convergence point for both the academic and business worlds, and the event has now become a unique forum for Management students from around the world.

The Macquarie Capital team will be up against 11 of the most distinguished international business schools in the world to analyse and present a cross-functional business case for a panel of judges composed of accomplished professionals. Participants in the past have included Harvard University, the London School of Economics and the Wharton School of Business. This year, the competition includes the Copenhagen Business School, and the National University of Singapore. This is the first time an Australian university has been invited to the MMICC and also the first team to represent the newly formed Adelaide Business School which came into existence on the 1st January 2008 through the merger of the School of Commerce and the Adelaide Graduate School of Business.

The case competition itself consists of twelve teams of four students, who each have 24 hours to solve and present a multi-disciplinary case of Ivy-league calibre, to a judging panel composed of top executives and esteemed representatives from a variety of firms. The general focus of the MMICC is on globalisation and innovation, and the cases require knowledge of all topics in business management.

The Macquarie Capital team would not have been able to participate in this competition, and represent both the University of Adelaide and Australia on the world stage without the support of its sponsors.

These include:

- Macquarie Capital
- Clayton Utz
- Treasury (Commonwealth)
- University of Adelaide Business School

Creation of a new University of Adelaide Business School

A new University of Adelaide Business School has been formed as a result of a merger between the School of Commerce and the Adelaide Graduate School of Business. The creation of this new school represents the continuation of the commitment of the University of Adelaide to ensuring it impacts effectively on the community it interacts with. The merger is part of an ongoing change process which involves significant investment in new facilities for the School and for students, and in accreditation.

The Business School has also moved to its new location in 10 Pulteney St. A launch date for the new school will be announced shortly along with a new website.
